ENRICO RAVA "Sicilia Project"

Enrico Rava is one of the best known and internationally acclaimed Italian jazz musicians.

He has always been involved in diverse and challenging experiences and appeared on the jazz scene in the mid-sixties, asserting himself quickly as one of the most compelling soloists of European jazz. His human and artistic openness places him outside every scheme and makes him a rigorous musician, albeit careless of conventions. His style is immediately recognizable, his lyrical sound is always supported by an astonishing freshness of ideas, revealed in all his musical adventures. He collaborated with Franco D'Andrea, Massimo Urbani, Stefano Bollani, Joe Henderson, John Abercrombie, Pat Metheny, Archie Shepp, Michel Petrucciani, Charlie Mariano, Joe Lovano, Richard Galliano, Steve Lacy, Mark Tuner, John Scofield.

Sicilia Project is a new line-up which includes the young Giuseppe Asero on alto, a musician with a distinct sensitivity and saxophonic taste; Dino Rubino, another internationally recognized Sicilian talent, sophisticated pianist and effective trumpeter; Nello Toscano, bass player focused on jazz composition who obtained numerous successes in Italy and abroad; Mimmo Cafiero, who landed to jazz in 1975 as a self-taught percussionist, he has since continued to play and collaborated with several bands, as well as the trio of guitarist Kurt Rosenwinkel.
